French Report German Planes Fly Over Lines

First German Reconnaissance Planes Are Sighted Over French Lines

ARTILLERY ACTION BEING INCREASED

Paris Communique Conceals Actual Extent Of Fighting On Western Front

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

PARIS, Oct. 10.—German reconnaissance planes flew over the French battle lines on the western front today for the first time since the European war began.

French authorities said that bad weather prevented the Germans from carrying out beneficial observations.

At the same time, German patrol and artillery actions in the Saar sector of the front were described as "sensational" by competent observers.

Enemy Patrols Active

Announcement of the activity of German patrols was announced by today's war office communique, No. 73, which stated:

"Enemy patrols continued active east and west of the Saar. There was reciprocal artillery action in the same region."

The communique, although concealing the extent of the fighting, was regarded as bearing out previous information that the war on the western front is becoming more intense and that the artillery barrages are growing in magnitude.

Nevertheless, authorities stated that while the pressure of the German patrols and artillery against the advanced French positions is increasing and more systematic than heretofore, there have not yet been German attacks designed to smash the French lines.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 10.—Engulfed in a wave of industrial expansion as a direct result of the European war, Pennsylvania taxpayers were saved more than $500,000 during the month of September by declining general assistance rolls, it was disclosed today.

The Department of Public Assistance revealed that the industrial upswing had already shown its effects on the relief rolls and was bringing a weekly saving to the commonwealth of approximately $110,000.

In all, it was pointed out, an estimated 11,500 cases, representing roughly 50,000 persons, were closed out by the department because of the industrial boom.

At the same time, the state WPA announced that 10,000 persons had

Hickory Township Will Remain Dry

Court Orders Original Count By Election Board Certified As Correct

Ballot Boxes Tamped With Says Court In Making Order

Hickory township stays dry. In an order handed down today by Judge W. Walter Braham, the original return of the second precinct board of the township, made on September 12, stands as the true result of the election and the official recount is set aside. The original return shows the township dry by 82 votes. The recount, which has been voided, showed the township wet by three votes.

Court Order

In the order handed down today Judge Braham said: "We outlined our position on Monday in this case and find no reason to change at this time. We find as a matter of fact, the ballot box had been tampered with but there is no indication as to who did it. We find the ballots have been altered in a fraudulent manner. The sealed and unsealed return sheets, the tally sheets and the set of sheets kept by the minority inspector showed no discrepancies."

"Accordingly it is ordered that the returns of the election board as filed are to be certified as the correct result of the election."

Arguments Brief

The arguments prior to the order took but a few minutes. For the appellee, Attorney Samuel S. L. Clark said they had produced what

(International News Service)
COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10.—At least three German planes were damaged by shells from British warships in yesterday's North sea battle, according to reports received in Copenhagen today.

One damaged German plane reached Norway and crashed near Flekkefjord. The German crew of four men were interned, one of them being sent to a hospital for treatment of wounds.

Two German bombers made forced landings along the west coast of Denmark. It was believed they also were damaged during the sea battle.

Reports from Oslo stated that the booming of guns in the sea battle were heard off Norway's southwestern coast between Utsira and Stavanger.

According to these advices, the naval staff at Oslo confirmed that the gunfire was heard yesterday afternoon.

Indirect Attack On Soviet Russia By Italian Press

(International News Service)
ROME, Oct. 10.—A new, indirect attack upon Soviet Russia was published by an Italian newspaper today, obviously with permission of Premier Mussolini's government.

The newspaper, Corriere della Sera, owned by Air Marshal Italo Balbo, called bolshevist leaders "tragic buffoons, professional magicians" and "models of gross bestiality."

Today the newspaper Messaggero indirectly assailed Russia in an article complaining against the silence of Great Britain and France over the Soviet invasion of Poland while they condemned the German invasion.

Determined To Maintain Her Hard-Won Independence In Present Crisis

HELSINKI, Finland, Oct. 10.—Determined to maintain her hard-won independence against the threat of Soviet aggrandizement, Finland called her troops to the colors and strengthened her Russian boundary today.

As Dr. Juho Paasikivi, the country's greatest expert on Russian affairs, sped to Moscow at the behest of Josef Stalin, the government called up all available troops and took urgent measures to strengthen the border in the Viborg region as proof that Finland will not bow without protest to any "unreasonable" demands the Soviets may make.

Conference at Moscow

It was repeatedly emphasized in official circles that Finland's relations with Russia remain friendly, and the hope was expressed that no unexpected contretemps will result when Paasikivi goes into conference with Soviet Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov.

Finland's independence, finally proclaimed after the bolshevist revolution, was never completely surrendered, even during the long years when this country was under Russian sovereignty. Successive attempts to "Russianize" the country failed utterly, and even under the czars, Finland retained the status of a grand duchy.

The Finns witnessed with dismay the surrenders of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

WITH THE BRITISH ROYAL AIR FORCE, SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Oct. 10.—Today I am with what they call "the advanced air striking force of the British bomber command."

It is an extension of the British air arm to France but is under command of the air authorities of England.

It is poised to strike and will strike at Germany with all its powers, instantly, massively and lethally, when Adolf Hitler delivers his first air attack upon England.

Today, standing on one of Britain's secret air fields in France, I witnessed preparations for a retaliation upon Germany which if Hitler could see might make him stay his bombers from their assault.

Never will war have been so mutually destructive and so excessively well prepared on both sides.

Erases Illusions

Never will war have erased so many illusions.

One such illusion was that "Hitler is bluffing." Another was that "France is degenerate." Another not less widely spread was that "Britain has lost her grip."

Some Changes In Embargo Bill To Be Accepted

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Administration leaders quietly agreed among themselves today to accept changes in the arms embargo repeal neutrality bill to permit continued American shipping in the Pacific and perhaps between Canada and the United States in the Atlantic.

The decision was reached in secret meetings between leaders handling the bill, and will not be publicly announced until later. It was made to placate serious bi-partisan opposition to the section prohibiting American boats from carrying cargoes to any belligerents or their possessions—thus cutting off trade with Australia and New Zealand in the Pacific and Canada in the Atlantic.

This development came as the senate neared a vote on the Tolley motion to separate the arms embargo repeal section of the bill from other portions, and act on them separately. Administration leaders predicted the Tolley move would be defeated. All the isolationists will vote for it because they do not want to permit the roll call to represent a real test of strength on embargo repeal, which they oppose.

Claim Spanish Relief Funds Diverted

Dies Committee Makes Charges

Communist Party Accused Of Diverting Funds Collected To Aid Spain

WISCONSIN MAN GIVES TESTIMONY

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Auditors for the house Dies committee have obtained proof that the Communist party diverted thousands of dollars to its own use out of funds raised to aid Loyalist Spain, it was disclosed today.

The funds were collected mainly through the North American Committee To Aid Spanish Democracy, and the Medical Bureau, American Friends Of Spanish Democracy, according to Rep. Martin Dies (D) of Texas.

Relief Funds Diverted
Dies made the disclosure after a young Wisconsin Communist, Kenneth Goff, had testified before the committee that he personally had seen Spanish relief funds diverted in his state to pay rent for party headquarters and for the salaries of party officials. Goff, as an active "front" organization worker and a member of the National Committee Of The Young Communists League, said he had conducted numerous money-raising campaigns for Spanish aid for the party.

"Before this committee completes its work it will produce proof that thousands of dollars have been deflected, never reaching the unfortunate in Spain at all," Dies said.

"The committee has had its accountants make a thorough study of the records and they show beyond question that large amounts of the money never left these shores."

The two Spanish aid organizations have had the support of many prominent public figures, including government officials, according to the committee's records.

evidence they could and had made legal objections where they thought them justified. For the appellants District Attorney John G. Lamoree offered no argument. The order followed.

What action will follow is not indicated as yet. There is a possibility that criminal action may result over the findings of fraud in the ballot box.

In such an action as this the appellants cannot get the case before an appellate court except by certiorari which is the averring of error in the record. The facts are not considered in such an action.

Handwriting Expert
Somebody other than the voters casting the ballots tampered with the ballots in the second precinct of Hickory township following the primary election of September 12, M. A. Nernberg testified Monday afternoon in the case before Judge W. Walter Braham.

Each of these groups bear the writing of more than one person," said Mr. Nernberg. "In the group of nine, the voters marked their ballots, then some one person added a cross to each of the nine. The same is true of the other groups. Whether the same person marked all of the ballots I cannot say definitely. It could have been one person who marked some while sitting down, some while standing up, others with a different pencil. There is no doubt whatever that the ballots were tampered with by someone other than the voters but whether one or more persons tampered with the ballots I cannot say."

The testimony of Mr. Nernberg closed the case of the appellants. Immediately the attorneys for the appellants called witnesses. Justice of the Peace A. M. Kimmel of Hickory township, in whose care the ballot box was from September 14 until it was brought in for recount was called. He said that during that time the box had been in his garage. He denied any knowledge of tampering with the ballots. Mrs. Kimmel also testified to the same thing.

On rebuttal, Mrs. Mabel Gormley was called and said that she had known nothing of the recount being ordered and had not seen the ballot box at the time it was ordered in. The official recount board was called, Darley Vandivort, Mrs. C. Ross, A. Lewis Conn and Willard Hood. They could not say whether or not the box showed signs of tampering when it was brought into court for recount.

Mr. Thomas Cat acted a good deal like some humans, contenting himself with lying in the shade of a bush, while Mrs. Cat, watched every move of the little ones, several times boxing their ears when they became too strenuous in their play. It was interesting to note how many people stopped to watch them.

A north hill woman says she spent the greater part of Sunday chasing wasps out of her house. She was stung twice, and is naturally feeling quite sore about it. What puzzled her for a time was how the wasps were getting into her house. The riddle was finally solved when she found that they were coming down the chimney. There had been a smoke going up the chimney recently, which is supposed to have routed the hornets from their nest, and as there was none on Sunday, they decided to come down and make it hot for the occupants. Hornets can fling their javelins with the precision of a Congo chief, and their wounds smart like a cut from a poisoned arrow.

Pa Newc has heard the suggestion that ballotboxitis might be prevented in the future, if ballot boxes were stored at the court house when the election boards make their returns, and they would be handy when those engaged in making the official count needed a box. So far, since the official board began making the count this year, fifteen boxes have been brought in, not counting the boxes that were brought in from Hickory township. With enlarged accommodations at the court house, room could now be found for all the ballot boxes.

him have it" and watched through the flames the enemy plunge to death.

When the Welshman bailed out, fire had scorched all the skin from his face.

He then had the rare experience of watching the Germans dive at him hanging helplessly beneath his parachute and repeatedly machine-gunning him. He fainted on the way down and when he woke up found he was landing in no man's land, with both Germans and French running for him.

The French took first.

For that British airman, the war has already begun. It also seems real to a certain squadron leader who counted 80 bullets in his machine when he came back the other day from a reconnaissance flight.

Remarkable Feats
These flights are among the most remarkable feats in military aviation and illustrate how far this war is truly the best prepared of any fought. For instance, now the British have not only mapped but photographed the enemy's position, practically every inch of the Siegfried line and have done it so thoroughly that the only exaggeration would be to say that they had taken studio portraits of every German soldier with his name and address and the number of his rifle.

Actually they have flown as much as 20 miles at a time over the Siegfried line at a height of 100 feet, taking an uninterrupted chain of fine-grain film which, enlarged and fitted into a mosaic, constitutes a huge panorama of the enemy lines, showing in greatest detail all those elements of the German position which are most valuable for the allied armies to know.

These reconnaissance flights have taken British observers all the way from Switzerland to the sea. Their most important observation is that the Siegfried line is unfinished.

They saw at many points work going on feverishly, with large groups of laborers evidently being urged to greatest haste to finish the construction which Hitler boasted had been finished last winter.

It will be recalled that it was this boast which among others led to allied overstatement of his strength and subsequently to the pact of Munich.

It is considered among professional observers now that Hitler's long delay in beginning warfare on the western front may to some extent be ascribed to this incomplete nature of the Siegfried line. But if his preparations are not complete, those of the British certainly are.

The organization of their secret aerodromes in France is a model of efficiency and their camouflage is miraculous. It even surpasses that of the French who had such world-famous painters as Picasso and Dreyer de Segonzac to devise the most baffling designs of brown, sepia, brick red and green to imitate the leaves and branches of the autumnal forests within which their engines of war are hidden.

Deaths of the Day

Charles W. Nolan

Charles Walker Nolan, prominent New Castle business man since the turn of the century, died in his home, 427 Sheridan avenue, at midnight after two years of failing health. His death was caused by a heart ailment. Although troubled for a long time, his condition confined him to bed just one week.

Mr. Nolan, owner of a ladies ready-to-wear store on Washington street, would have been 63 years old on November 25. He was born in Corning, N. Y., son of James and Catherine Nolan, and was at the time of his death the last surviving member of his family. His parents, born in America, were of Irish extraction, their forbears having been natives of Kilkenny.

Mr. Nolan was in business in New York City and Scranton before coming to New Castle in 1902 as general manager of the Peoples Credit Clothing company. In just a few years, in 1906, he went into business for himself, opening a store on Washington street near the present location of the Regent theater, and later moving to the present location.

In 1913 he married a New Castle girl, Miss Ella Grace McBride, daughter of John and Isabella McBride. His wife and one son, Charles Wallace Nolan, of this city, survive. He also leaves several nieces and nephews in Scranton.

When his health became bad two years ago, his son, who had been in Boston since graduation from Princeton university, came back to New Castle to assist in the business.

It is announced that funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2:30 p. m. in the residence. Interment will be in Oak Park cemetery.

CEASELESS WAR IF PEACE MOVE IS NOT ACCEPTED

"War Reasons Ridiculous
"They have provoked this war for reasons that are ridiculous. But Germany is resolved to accept the challenge, and will take up the fight one way or another if our offer of peace is rejected."

"We are frightened neither by battle itself nor by the duration of war."

"Foremost before us stands the eternal life of the Fatherland. However long the war may last, nothing will shake or perturb us, or cause us to despair."

"On the contrary, whatever the rest of the world chooses, it will receive."

"I have traveled a difficult road to lead the German people upward from the annihilation of Versailles."

"The Reich today is more powerful than ever, and the road ahead cannot be more difficult than the one we have travelled thus far. Once we conquered despair upon this road, and we will never know despair again."

"War In Our Ideology"
"The winter of war will find us all the more ready to accept the sacrifices necessary to aid the nation's existence."

"The time has now come," the Fuehrer continued, "when Nazism will prove its full constructive national strength."

"Our ideas are derived from war, and war is in our ideology. If necessary, we will stand the final test."

"The decision no longer rests with us."

"With us there is grim resolution to accept the decision one way or another, and then to fight to the last consequences."

"This winter relief must make the nation harder than ever. The more resolutely that people take upon themselves the sacrifices that war entails, the more certain we will be to obtain peace."

"This period of insecurity will end some day. It must be possible that Germany will be able to shape her national life within her lebensraum (living space), that Germany will some day receive her share of the natural resources of the world—resources that we can and will claim."

To Redress Wrongs
"I call upon the home front to redress the wrongs that the home front inflicted from 1914 to 1918."

This last was a reference to Hitler's own repeated charge that "marxist" elements within the Reich itself were responsible for Germany's defeat in the last war.

At the time announcement was made that Hitler personally would inaugurate the fund, a flood of rumors swept Berlin that the British government had resigned and that an armistice was in the making.

There was jubilation everywhere until the thousands of calls made to government offices and newspapers resulted in general disillusionment. The German radio then announced that the rumors had no basis in fact, and accused British secret service agents of spreading them "to create general unrest."

Hitler says he feels honored when the British denounce him. In that case, the world's opinion should tickle him pink.

FINE ARTS GROUP OPENING PROGRAM

Mrs. Carl E. Crawford was a delightful hostess to members of the Fine Arts Department of Woman's Club Monday afternoon, when the initial meeting of the new season was held in her Edison avenue home.

Under the direction of Chairman Mrs. Ross D. Rosenberger, a fine program was presented, featuring poetry and music.

Mrs. James W. Rhodes, chairman of the literature group, introduced as speaker of the afternoon, Ross D. Rosenberger, who gave a splendid recital of poetry and a talk, pre-taining to this subject. He portrayed "Seven Ages Of Man" as set forth in Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Mr. Rosenberger described each age in his readings, and especially good were his contributions of two dialects. He closed his program by giving a group of request numbers, including such favorites as "The Highway Man" by Noyes, "Frost Tonight" (Edith M. Thomas) and Kipling's well known verse "When Earth's Last Picture Is Painted."

Miss Barbara Schulz gave a piano number, Liszt's "Rigoletto," which pleased.

A group of songs were sung by Mrs. W. J. Caldwell, "Street Fair" by Kathleen Lockhart Manning, and "Canticle Of The Sea Gulls" by one of New Castle's own composers, Gladys Rich. To fittingly tie in with the program theme, Mrs. Caldwell concluded with an arrangement of James Whitcomb Riley's poem "The First Is On The Pumpkin." Mrs. Kathryn N. Allen was her accompanist.

New Year books were distributed and announcements concerning same were made by the department vice-chairman, Mrs. J. J. McIlvaine.

BUILDING SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE

WHEN congress meets in regular session in January—perhaps even before that time, and during the present special session—it will be called on to help this nation take advantage of the new export opportunity in South America.

Be it known that last year Germany sold 283 million dollars worth of goods to our southern neighbors. Uncle Sam can have most of that trade—and probably a large share of the British and French trade, too—if he can find means to finance it.

Financing will not be easy. The administration has been studying the problem and has examined several suggestions. A high government official suggests that congress probably will be asked to do one of two things:

Either make more money available for financing the trade through existing machinery, or set up new machinery, with new financing, for handling it in a new way.

The handiest bit of existing machinery is the Export-Import Bank. It has loanable resources of $100,000,000, but most of this is already committed. In the spending-lending bill which was introduced last spring, an added $100,000,000 was asked for the bank. The bank didn't get it, and it is now to finance greatly increased trade with South America it will have to have more money.

If new machinery is to be created, an entirely new method of handling the trade may be indicated. One plan which has been considered is to set up a government corporation to buy surplus South American commodities—coffee, wheat and so on—in much the manner that surplus United States commodities are now handled.

This scheme admittedly would be expensive, and has aroused strong opposition from the ace business advisers in the Department of Commerce.

A variant of this plan which has been suggested is to make direct loans to the leading South American countries, taking stocks of their raw materials as security.

A short time ago a number of American exporting companies discussed a plan for sending their best representatives to South America and putting on a whirlwind sales drive. They finally abandoned the idea, and the Commerce Department was just as well pleased, figuring that when the South Americans need increased supplies of American products and have the money to pay for them they will act on their own hook.

Right now, Commerce Department people point out, the United States has 36 per cent of South America's trade, which is just about its fair percentage. Germany's much talked-of trade drive made its gains mostly at the expense of the British, not the United States.

BERGDOLL MUST TAKE HIS MEDICINE

Grover Cleveland Bergdoll refused to fight for his country in time of war and ran away from the draft. For that craven act he deserves proper punishment. After serving only several months of his original five-year sentence, he escaped from his prison guards by means of the celebrated pot of gold hoax and remained a fugitive for nineteen years, seven of which he says he spent under the nose of the FBI in his Wynnefield home. For this act of desertion he also deserves punishment, just as any escaped convict would.

Under the sentence of the general court martial, Bergdoll must serve out his original term and an extra three years imposed for escaping. Considering the length of time that has elapsed since the Philadelphia ran away and the fact that many other draft-dodgers received little or no penalty, the verdict of the Army court may seem unnecessarily severe says the Philadelphia Inquirer. But it must be recalled that Bergdoll gave himself up only when he thought it was to his own interests to abandon his role of fugitive and reclaim openly his family and his wealth. The man who would not serve his country is not doing that country any favor, surely, in leaving war-torn Germany and seeking haven in America.

Bergdoll is unlikely, in any event, to spend the full term in prison. Army regulations make prisoners with good behavior records eligible for parole after serving one-third of their sentences. Bergdoll has been in a cell a total of eight months; in two years he may apply for parole.

CONFLAGRATIONS STILL HAPPEN

"The day of conflagrations is not past," says F. D. Layton, President of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. And he has plenty of evidence to support his statement.

Last May a Chicago granary fire and explosion devastated an area one-fourth mile square, took eight lives and destroyed property valued at more than $3,000,000. Earlier in the year, fire razed a business block in Sandusky, Ohio, causing a million-dollar loss. Several buildings went up in smoke in Halifax, Nova Scotia—to the tune of $800,000.

As Mr. Layton also says, "The threat of great fires is present in most cities." Inadequate or outmoded building codes—the existence of ancient firetraps and tenements—poorly organized fire fighting facilities—unstable water supply—these are a few of the hazards that may, at any moment, produce a hell of smoke and flame which will leave death and destruction in its wake.

Further, the conflagration danger is not confined to the larger cities of the country. A quarter-mile fire such as that which occurred in Chicago is soon forgotten in a metropolis—a fire of similar size in a small town would destroy it completely. In many of the small communities a single factory is the main source of the town's jobs and income. If that factory burns, a blow is struck from which the community may never be able to recover.

Here is where the cause of fire prevention comes straight home to us all. To help prevent fire is a personal job.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HOW "TAG-ALONG" BREEDS HATRED

LET'S suppose you are at or approaching the teen age and you have a brother or sister a few years younger. How would you feel if this youngster snooted around when you were with your own friends, or followed you everywhere you went?

Perhaps your parents command you to take this younger brother or sister along with you. And, may urge him to spy on you and report to them what he saw or heard. No wonder you have sometimes wished this brother or sister did not exist. No wonder you hate him or her so much that you could almost annihilate the youngster. And it's likely this younger brother or sister can't understand why you feel as you do.

In order to protect him and you from so much needless unhappiness, your parents should make clear to him that he must mind his own business and not expect to share your company, that he must cultivate his own friends among those of his age.

Ever so many parents write me of the older child who is rude to the younger child, or will not share with him. These parents suppose that the art of sharing can be cultivated by commanding a child to share. The less likely he will share. They should know that the more they try to force any child to share thereafter, wiser parents patiently prevail upon the child to share and help him enjoy satisfaction from sharing. In order to make their persuasion effective, the parents train the younger child not to use the older child's things without the owner's permission (and vice versa), and they serve as policemen to protect the rights of the older child. How strange it is that so many parents are always trying to induce, or even coerce, the older child to give up to the younger, and so rarely protect the older child from the barbarism of the baby.

This problem is closely related to jealousy. With so many normal causes for the older to be jealous of the younger, this jealousy is increased when the older child finds himself expected to give up to the younger, and to let the younger impose on him as he pleases.

If you want to reduce quarreling between your children, make clear to each what his rights and possessions are, and see to it that these rights are respected and protected.

WHY NOT
The people of this Nation are very jealous of their freedom—freedom of speech, freedom of action, freedom to express any ideas they may happen to have.

This is all right. We are all strong for it, but should the aliens who happen to be with us be permitted the same freedom? Should a strong Nazi sympathizer be permitted to organize Nazi Societies? Should a Soviet Russian living with us be permitted to organize Soviet Societies and on down the line? Should foreign agitators admitted to the Nation, who have not even intimated any desire to become citizens be permitted to spread the gospel of Communism, Nazism, Fascism or any other "ism" hostile to our form of Government?

The President has assembled Congress for the sole purpose of reforming neutrality legislation. Mr. Hoover found that it was a very dangerous thing to assemble a Congress in a Special Session, with the idea of doing a particular thing. The (Continued On Page Five)

Garner's Bid Begins To Fade
White House Hopes Are Dimmer
Chances Of Texan Hurt By War

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

Washington, Oct. 10. THINGS DON'T look so healthy for John N. Garner, as a Democratic presidential possibility in 1940, as they did not so very long ago. The war hasn't been in his candidacy's interest. John L. Lewis' description of him as a "labor bailing, poker playing, whiskey drinking, evil old man" evidently has done his cause more damage than looked likely at first. And, to a certain extent, he's had to deflate his own boom himself, by agreeing with President Roosevelt that our arms embargo ought to be repealed.

Politicians all foresee that the outbreak of hostilities in Europe would favor F. D.'s chances of re-nomination, whether or not we get into the muss before his party's next convention date. Their reasoning is that, if we don't get in, he'll be given credit for having kept us out, and that there'll be an overwhelming demand for his retention in office, to keep on keeping us out. If, on the opposite hand we do not get in, the posters concur that the cry, "We mustn't change horses" will be raised to tremendous effect. All this supports the argument that the present White House tenant is pretty sure to be drafted, willy-nilly, for a third term. It follows that, if he is, Garner's prospects evaporate.

As to the arm embargo issue? The Texan is on the president's side—the embargo should be lifted. I assume that that's what he really thinks. However, it's the side he had to take, anyway, because the south's congressional representation is almost solidly anti-embargo. Scarcely needful to say, Texas Jack's views have got to coincide with the south's. Had queer himself completely otherwise.

John L. Lewis

Jack let's it be known that he isn't in harmony with the administration on hardly any other proposition, but he weakens his cause by having to indorse it, even on that one.

Plenty of people considered John L. Lewis' attack on the Lone Star statesman in frightfully bad taste. I'm acquainted with lots of laborites who felt, at the time, that Lewis had overdone himself. They weren't so positive that John N. was one of their baiters, they didn't mind his poker playing and whiskey drinking (if any), for they were in the habit of doing the same things themselves. They didn't assess him as such an awfully wicked old man.

Right off the reel these critics were inclined to reckon that John L. simply had advertised the V. P., without doing him any harm.

On second thought, though, this notion soaked in: Lewis probably didn't care a cent's worth whether or not his reputation was hurt or not.

Parents, while at home you fret. Never seek the truth to get. Only brilliant successes. Come from propaganda presses. Those who into war compel you. Only pleasing lies will tell you.

Unto warfare, horror-padded. They have cruel science added! War might last, but much I doubt it. If the truth were known about it.

Parents, never seek to know. Where it is your soldiers go. Just what patch of soil they're tramping.

Where entrenched or where they're camping. Here is war's express condition: "Port unknown" and "secret mission!"

And for parents worn and weary. "Tell them nothing!" is the theory. War is hell to priest and poet. But don't let the parents know it.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

News of the massing of 300,000 Soviet soldiers in the province of Sin-Kiang, in northwestern China, is a menacing off-stage rumble, possibly as disquieting to old England as any of the detonations in the main theatre of war. For 300 miles this province, a sort of no-man's-land, considering its isolation and China's feeble foothold there, borders on India. For 1,000 miles, from the southwestern end of this border, stretches Tibet, a narrow buffer between Sin-Kiang and the border of India, which border traditional empire policy has sought to keep forever inviolable.

When the lion wheeled on the streets in ancient Rome, the onlookers were no more disturbed than this, the first real threat to India since Victoria's first great Durbar proclaimed her empress of "Indus coral strands."

It was in 1904 that the intrepid Colonel Sir Francis Younghusband forced his way through the savage desert and mountain wilderness of Tibet to Lhasa, to intrench British power there and make of Tibet a bulwark against Moghul or Slav or Teuton or any who might look covetously on the golden treasure of the Maharajahs.

The big, grim, steely-eyed, silent Kitchener followed Younghusband, oddly enough, to gather orchids, his life obsession. He would traverse a desert waste or march through the raining spears of the Fuzze-Wuzzes or Whirling Dervishes to find a rare or exquisite orchid. That is a momentary diversion from the grim power politics of today's headlines, but Younghusband and Kitchener are forever inseparable from the British dream, and where romance is, there the heart is; and it happens, also, that here are Britain's most precious and romantic thrones, powers and dominions.

Thrust up like a jaw of a wolf are the savage mountains of Tibet. No wonder Kitchener was complacent and kept his mind on his orchids. Providence had thoughtfully provided the needed bulwark of empire. But at just about that time the Wright Brothers were trying out their first feeble crop-choppers at Kittyhawk and neither Kitchener nor anyone else pondered what that might mean to future new horizons or "lost horizons."

What the Soviets might do with planes and mechanized transport and weapons at India's back door is still in Time's suspense file. The canny British have set up Singapore to guard the sea approach, their naval base still adequate even with their navy on guard at home. Will the mountain ramparts and the savage deserts prevail against the red hordes of the modern Genghis Khan from the Krum-lin if they are loosed through Tibet and along that open border?

Within the last year or two there have been reports that roads were being built south from Y

Work Started On Razing Old Car Works Plant

Contract Is Let To Uhl Construction Company, Of Pittsburgh

TO COMPLETE JOB
IN THREE MONTHS

Work was started yesterday on razing the main building of the old Standard Steel Car plant on Mahoning avenue, recently purchased from the Pullman Company by S. D. Factor, of Pittsburgh, and will be carried forward to completion as fast as possible. J. C. Reese, who is superintendent of the job for the Uhl Construction company, of Pittsburgh, stated this morning.

It is expected that around 60 men will be employed in the task many of whom were already at work this morning, and the job of razing the plant will probably be completed in about three months.

The main building, a structural steel structure, has been purchased by the Copperweld Steel company, and will be used by them at Warren, O., where the Copperweld company is locating. It is 1080 feet in length, and the task of razing it, will require almost as much time as it would to construct a building of this nature, as the rivets must be driven out and the sections removed with care, so that they can be used again in their original form.

Labor for the job is being secured through the Pennsylvania Employment office here, men who have had experience in this type of work being referred to the company tearing the building down, where they are hired if they fit the requirements of the employer. There was quite a gang of men at work this morning, clad in steel helmets to protect them from flying rivets and bits of debris.

The Uhl Construction company will not only raze the building here, but will also re-erect it on the site purchased by the Copperweld company in Warren, the contract being a big one.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 10 — Governor James has no sympathy with proposals being advanced this year that the Armistice Day celebration be postponed this year because of the European war. "The minds of the people of the United States are just as firmly for democracy today as they were then," said the governor, pointing out that the celebration of Armistice Day marked the end of a war in which we fought to make the world safe for democracy. "That that effort had been apparently in vain did not detract from the effort made, the governor stated.

"We don't celebrate Armistice Day because we thought it ended war," said the governor. "We entered the last war because we hoped to end war and make democracy safe. Because we were not successful is no reason why we should forget the men who hoped to end all wars, some 250,000 of whom gave their lives with that hope in mind."

Governor James said that our celebration this year of Armistice Day would be a re-affirmation of our belief in democracy and that he intended to issue the usual proclamation.

The 100th anniversary this year of the inauguration of one of Pennsylvania's early governors, David Rittenhouse Porter, arouses interest in an old stone house reputedly erected by him in 1814 as a youth and still standing. The building, of which four stout walls but no roof remain, is located on Spruce Creek, a few miles from Huntingdon. In the walls are slits, presumably placed there to ward off attacks by marauding Indians. A tree grows within the walls. Porter was then 26 years old and ran an iron forge on the banks of the Spruce Creek. 25 years later he became governor, serving from 1839 to 1845. He died in 1867.

In an effort to obtain a concise picture of how the business uplift occasioned by the war in Europe is affecting Pennsylvania, Governor James has directed Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown to make a survey of the state. The biggest increase in work has been in the steel mills of Western Pennsylvania and in the soft and hard coal mines of Western and Northeastern Pennsylvania. An increase in Great Lakes shipping activities has also been noted at Erie.

At a recent meeting of the Pennsylvania Committee for Interstate Co-operation, the question of how increased war powers of the federal government might affect the state's rights was discussed by various cabinet officials and legislative representatives. The committee decided to present the subject for discussion to the Council of State Governments, meeting this month in Chicago.

Leader Lewis clearly scored a point when he referred to Vice President Nance as old.

Neither Here Nor There
Republican candidates aren't affected.

They may be on election day, but not in the nominating conventions. As to Democrats?—approximately they've simmered down to Roosevelt, Paul V. McNutt, Garner and James A. Farley. Paul V. Hooley! Garner? Blowing up Farley? Never a serious consideration. Barring F. D., nobody else is left. Oh, yes, State Secretary Hull. He's a dandy statesman, but he's too old, too—and he hasn't the "pep."

Tokes? Hopkins? Already out of the picture.

Democratically it's about down to F. D. and Paul V.

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headachy days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble? If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted breakfast cereal is the source of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew.

Eat Kellogg's All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

Congress of these United States has always run amuck when it has called a Special Session and generally does about everything but the thing considered necessary for the occasion.

All Legislatures are that way and in this Special Session of Congress does anything more than pass a new Neutrality Bill, they might do well to take care of the very serious situation and pass some legislation calculated to end these Societies within the Nation, composed of aliens and formed for the sole purpose of destroying the institutions of this Republic.

When Townsendsites must spend $200 a month, we'll no longer hear the complaint, that modern kids don't help the old folks.

James C. Grandey to New Brighton Building and Loan Association, Ellwood, $800.

L. W. Stanley to Bessemer Limestone and Cement Company, Bessemer, $1.

D. Preston Carson to Clarence E. Armstrong, First ward, $1.

John U. Baer to D. R. Edginton, Fourth ward, $1.

County Commissioners opened bids today for furniture to be used in the Boyles property. There were four bidders: McCracken and Carls, Castle Stationery Company, Charles T. Metzler, and the Robins Furniture Company. As there were a great many pieces of furniture, it will take the commissioners some time to over the different items and award the contract.

County Commissioners went to Princeton today to confer with the road supervisors of Slippery Rock township, with regard to the top surfacing of several pieces of highway, which the township has constructed, or is about to build.

Expense accounts of candidates filed at the county commissioners office are as follows: Dominick Clouti, Democratic candidate for mayor, contributions $67 of which $52 was by the Democratic club, expenses, $66.40; John H. Haven, Republican candidate for mayor, contributions $20, expenses, $226.55. Those filing accounts whose expenditures were less than $50, were Harry Stee, assessor; C. L. Shira, school board; T. C. Marshall, assessor; Ellwood; Joseph M. Myers, county controller; and Thomas McCullough, assessor.

There were eighty-eight instruments of all kinds filed at the register and recorder's office during the past week of which thirty-five were deeds and sixteen were mortgages. Of the mortgages, seven for a total of $12,110 were given to building and loans; six were to banks for a total of $13,900; two to individuals for a total of $3,122 and one to a realty company for $1,000.

Lawrence county's funds are deposited in seven different banks in the county, according to County Treasurer V. I. Mandich. All deposits are guaranteed either by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, or by securities put up by banks for the use of the county treasurer in case of default in payment. The money is further safeguarded by the treasurer's bonds, which are in the amount of $250,000 for county funds; $150,000 for institution funds and $20,000 for commonwealth funds, making a total of $420,000. All receipts are audited and countersigned by the county controller at the time the transaction is made. All disbursements are authorized by warrant signed by at least two county commissioners and the county controller. Treasurer Mandich has just completed a statement of the total business of the office since he assumed charge June 1, 1938 to September 30th, 1939. This shows receipts and disbursements of $3,132,992.03, of which $1,947,089.51 is receipts and $1,185,902.52 disbursements. This was broken up as follows: County and institution receipts and disbursements, $2,404,992.03; school and road districts, receipts and disbursements, $543,956.26 and commonwealth of Pennsylvania, receipts and disbursements, $184,363.62.

Registration Clerk Edith Hileman, is starting the preparation of the street lists to be issued before the November election. Only the backs of the lists are being printed at present as the registrations which have been made during the last period have not yet all been entered in the respective records. The street lists will contain the names of all voters, their street addresses, and politics. In the country the lists are prepared by districts.

Certified copy of the will of Sarah A. Stafford, late of Sharpville, has been sent here for filing at the register and recorder's office. It shows that letters in the estate were issued to F. P. Stafford and Minnie E. Bartholomew.

Construction work under the supervision of Charles W. King, district construction foreman, included the placing of 350 new poles and the replacing of approximately one hundred miles of open wire by the new cable.

The project will be completed by

Estimated Saving Of $3,701.379 Is Reported By State Administration

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 10.—The economy pledges of the James administration today were apparently bearing fruit as budget secretary Edward Logan announced that 1,956 employees had been lopped from the state payroll at an estimated saving of $3,701.379.

Logan pointed out that this figure did not include the department of public assistance or the liquor control board.

On January 1, Logan said, "the state payroll, excepting the two departments mentioned, was $21,241,005. On August 31 the payroll was $17,539,626—a decrease of $3,701,379." Logan added that there were 10,177 employees on the state payroll excluding the DPA, and the LCB.

Up to August 31, Logan concluded, "withdrawals have exceeded appointments by 1,956 with 5,376 withdrawals and 3,420 appointments."

MASSAGE CURES CLUB FOOT IF DONE IN INFANCY

Thank goodness, we didn't have any deformity like club foot to contend with in the quintuplets. When they were born their limbs were somewhat out of shape, so that some thought they were deformed. But an experienced physician could see that all they suffered from was rickets, something that proper diet could correct without the massages necessary in cases of club foot.

As I said yesterday, the whole secret in curing club foot is to learn the proper massages and to perform them every day. No matter what happens, don't let anything interfere with those massages. I always impress upon mothers and fathers that the difference between having a deformed, partially crippled child and a normal one depends almost entirely on them. When they realize this fully, it is seldom they shirk the responsibility.

If the massages are done properly and regularly, the foot may be normal by the time the child is six months old; that is, if the case is not too severe. In cases which do not respond, the doctor usually feels that at the age of six months it is wise to put the foot in a cast.

To perform this, it may be necessary to give the child an anesthetic, depending on the seriousness of the deformity. The anesthetic surely will be needed if the parents haven't done some massaging.

When the joint is movable, it is twisted to as near normal position as possible, then a plaster cast is put over the leg extending up as far as the mid-thigh region. The knee is kept at a right angle and the foot is held in this position until the cast is dry and firm.

Even when an anesthetic is used because the pain of twisting would be too much for the child, the same procedure is followed. Since it is important for the plaster cast to dry quickly, it is wise to place the leg in a cradle where several burning electric light bulbs supply dry heat. The quicker the drying is done, the more likely the foot will be held in the proper position. The child may be uncomfortable for a day or two after the cast is made and may be fretful and unhappy. However, this discomfort doesn't last very long, for the stretched tendons gradually lengthen and give him relief.

Every two weeks the cast should be changed, and each time the foot stretched a little nearer the normal position. Eventually the time comes when the cast can be left off entirely. Then the child should have normal feet with no reminder that he was once deformed.

Actually I have had to place feet in casts only a few minutes, for I have found massaging very, very satisfactory. In a recent severe case, rather than attempt to correct it myself I sent the child to a hospital. Where they have X-rays to look at the twisted tendons and see how best to straighten them.

Unfortunately many club foot babies are not brought to a doctor in time, and when they become adults their infirmity is still with them. Even if the child is only a couple of years old when the doctor first sees him the chances of fixing up the foot by massages are meagre. In some of these cases the application of casts isn't successful, and about the only thing left to do is to cut the tendons which are too short, and then the foot rarely has normal strength.

From West Washington Street Bridge

Work was started late Monday afternoon to remove the many telephone cables from the bottom of the West Washington street bridge and place them under the Shenango river.

This will remove a lot of excess weight from the bridge. Workmen were busy almost all day Monday getting the huge power scoop shovel into the river, just north of the bridge.

The shovel was taken into the water, where the banks are low, down stream about 2,000 feet, and then run up the river bed and under the bridge to the desired spot. The shovel will be used to clear the river channel of big rocks and dig required ditch under the river.

Youth Army Is Enrolling In Safety Drive

School Children Of Lawrence County To Conduct Survey Of Accident Hazards

PRESENT WEEK IS BEING USED

Prevention of home and farm accidents, reported by the National Safety Council as causing more deaths and injuries in this country annually than automobiles, is the purpose of the fifth annual campaign for the discovery and removal of accident hazards launched here Monday as part of a nationwide undertaking of the American Red Cross.

The school children of Lawrence County will take part in this campaign. It was announced today by George Reid, chairman of house and farm accident prevention of the Red Cross Chapter of Lawrence County.

"These boys and girls," he said, "will be serving as members of a national youth army of 10,000,000 pupils of public, private and parochial schools, who will take home check lists distributed by the Red Cross and will seek the cooperation of their families in making a careful examination of their homes and surroundings to find and remove all possible causes of accidental death and injury."

Are Serious Menace
"These hazards in the home," he pointed out, "are a serious menace because they are commonly unrecognized. Last year 31,500 persons lost their lives and 4,650,000 were injured—140,000 of them permanently—as a result of home accidents. The decrease in the home accident death toll, from 37,000 in 1936, shows what can be done in this direction through cooperative and persistent effort."

The Red Cross check list, which includes a note to parents suggesting the formation of discussion groups in accidental prevention, enumerates the common home accident hazards under the following ing type-of-accident headings: Falls and broken bones, burns and scalds, asphyxiation and suffocation, electric shock, bleeding and infection, poisonings and gun shot wounds.

Discussing the farm accident phase of the prevention campaign, Mr. Reid stressed the fact that "more persons are killed while at work in agricultural pursuits than in any other occupation."

"Last year," he said, "there were more than 100,000 accidents on the farms of America and 4,300 of them were fatal. It is apparent that there is no one who has greater need for being accident minded than the farmer. He is usually far removed from doctors and hospitals, and the nature of his work is hazardous."

"The two principal agents of farm accidents are, first, machinery and second, livestock. According to recent surveys they account for one-half to two-thirds of all farm accidents. In addition to these, the Red Cross check list sets forth the hazards of the farm under four other headings: Tools and equipment, the farm yard, the farm home and buildings."

By cooperating with the school children and the Red Cross in making good use of these check lists, the adult population of New Castle and the county can effectively aid in reducing the number of deaths and injuries caused by accidents of this nature. Boyd Barrett is assisting Mr. Reid in Ellwood City.

Revision Of Milk Control Law Seen

Chairman McKee Admits Changes Are Anticipated In Near Future

FAIR PRICES FOR ALL ARE SOUGHT

By TOM R. BRISLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Oct. 10.—A drastic revision of Pennsylvania's milk control laws to provide for closer producer-dealer negotiations was foreseen today.

Although he declined to discuss how extensive contemplated changes in the milk control laws might be, John M. McKee, Carlisle, chairman of the milk control commission, admitted that some changes were anticipated.

It was learned, however, that milk interests throughout the state have been pushing for legislation to narrow the gap now existing between producer and dealer negotiations in the matter of price fixing and milk distribution.

2—Create under the jurisdiction and control of the milk control commission a number of "sub-commissioners" to handle hundreds of minor citations, which, it was claimed, throw extra burdens on the commissioners.

3—Provide for expansion of a research bureau in the milk control commission to obtain all available data to be used in determining milk prices in the various milk marketing areas of the state.

The first change was desired, it was stated, so that producers and dealers, in the past, often miles apart when it came to price negotiations, might better evolve what they felt were "fair prices" for both the production and the distribution of milk.

It was in this connection, too, that expansion of the research bureau was being advocated. McKee disclosed that such an expansion has already been inaugurated but that it would take almost a year and additional funds to gather all the desired data.

War In Europe Has Affect On World's Fair Food

Supply Of Polish Hams, And Other Delicacies Running Short

(International News Service)

WORLD'S FAIR, New York, Oct. 10.—Good old-fashioned American dishes like ham and eggs, roast beef sandwiches and hot dogs are plentiful at the New York World's Fair, but if you're interested in reindeer steaks, the war is beginning to pinch.

"People who want to taste the prize dishes of Europe will have to hurry, the way things look," said Karel Zima, formerly chef of His Majesty King Alexander of Yugoslavia, now chef of Czechoslovakia's "Old Prague" restaurant at the fair.

Principal eating places affected by the Allied blockade which disrupted trans-Atlantic steamer service are those of Czechoslovakia, Great Britain and Poland.

Flour Running Low
At the Czechoslovakia restaurant supplies of imported dry mushrooms, goose liver and Prague ham are running low. The dried mushrooms are used in the preparation of a native potato soup and a variety of grilled steak with sauce known as roztana.

A special problem also facing the Czech restaurant is the shortage of flour similar to finely ground farina, used in its dumplings and Bohemian pastry. This flour cannot be obtained in the United States. When present supplies are exhausted, no more will be available.

The maitre d'hotel of the restaurant estimates, however, that his supply of famous Pilsner beer, shipped to the fair grounds before Hitler took Czechoslovakia, will just about last until the end of October when the fair is scheduled to close for the winter.

Will Train 800 Plane Pilots In State In Year

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 10.—Eight hundred airplane pilots will be trained this year in Pennsylvania as part of the United States government's national defense program, the State Aeronautics Division revealed today.

The pilots will be trained at colleges and universities approved by the U. S. civil aeronautics authority, in charge of the program. Nineteen have already qualified with the applications of others still to be acted upon.

William M. Schwarz, acting head of the state aeronautics division, revealed that his division, acting in cooperation with the C. A. A., was conducting a campaign among the 72 colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, urging them to apply for authority to conduct the courses. Schwarz said that to date 55 had indicated they would, while only one had indicated disapproval.

Boost For Aviation

Schwarz said he felt that the government's program meant a "big boost" for the aviation industry in Pennsylvania. A widespread interest among colleges and young people in general was noticeable, he said, with indications that if it continued the state might secure an increased quota for next year. From 150 to 200 letters have been received by the state aeronautics division from persons interested in taking the courses, he said.

The Pennsylvania program is part of a nationwide plan inaugurated by the government to provide additional pilots. Pennsylvania's part in the program is at present exceeded in extent by only four other states, California, Texas, Ohio and Michigan.

Colleges and Universities approved by the C. A. A. will give aviation courses as part of their regular curriculum.

Each student will pay a $40 fee, to which the government will add $20. Following instruction in ground work at school, students will proceed to taking a flying course at local airports selected by the colleges and approved by the civil aeronautics authority.

35 Hours Of Solo Flying
Each student pilot will receive 35 hours of solo flying, sufficient to enable him to obtain a non-commercial private license permitting him to pilot a plane and carry non-paying passengers.

One effect of the federal aviation program was expected to be an increased sale and use of private airplanes, a decided boost to the aviation industry.

The following colleges and universities in Pennsylvania have qualified for participation in the government's program: University of Pennsylvania, Grove City College, Pennsylvania Military College, Franklin & Marshall College, St. Joseph's College, Albright College, Lehigh University, Pennsylvania State College, Westminster College, Duquesne University, University of Scranton, Allegheny College, Bucknell Junior College, St. Vincent's College, LaSalle College, Temple University, Scranton-Keystone Junior College, Lebanon Valley College, and Williamsport-Dickinson Seminary.

Two per cent of the pilots trained will be women.

Cash Income For Farmers Declines

Slightly Greater Decrease In Pennsylvania Than In Country At Large

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10.—The decline in cash income of farmers from sale of principal farm products this year has been slightly greater in Pennsylvania than the country at large, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported today.

During the January-August period Pennsylvania farmers received $143,542,000 in such income. This was a decrease of $9,646,000 or six per cent, below the corresponding period of 1938. In the country as a whole, such income dropped only five per cent in this period.

Federal payments to Pennsylvania farmers cooperating in the soil conservation program, on the other hand, increased from $2,282,000 in the January-August interval last year to $4,215,000 in the similar months this year.

Finds Tree Damage Done By Caterpillar

Recently, a gentleman on the east side, had his attention called to a tree in his yard, from a branch of which some of the leaves had been eaten. Upon investigation, he found that a large green worm, on the limb, had done the work. He talked to Owen Fox about the matter, who stated that the creature was the caterpillar of the hawk moth. This caterpillar, is more plentifully found in the southern states, and does untold damage to the tobacco crops. In this location, it feeds on tomato and potato leaves, and gim-son-weeds, and sometimes found feeding on certain shade trees.

The Hawk moth after its evolution, develops into a beautiful creature. It becomes a very large butterfly, with gorgeous colors on its wings, silver gray, white with black, with zig-zag lines, and carrying a black border, with a clay colored margin.

The two wicked looking horns, that are seen on the head of the caterpillar, are its feeding spikes when the creature turns into a moth. When it is not feeding, these spikes coil up like a watch-spring between the cheek tabs.

War Would Aid Hard Coal Sales

Anthracite Production May Be Increased By European Conflict

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 10.—Predicting a 10,000,000-ton increase in the sales of anthracite within the next year as a result of the European war, T. M. Hicks, industrial commissioner for the Wilkes-Barre chamber of commerce, warned the hard coal industry that such a goal could only be achieved through an "intelligent merchandising program."

Hicks declared that "it is entirely within the realm of possibility" that anthracite production might be pushed up 20,000,000 or 25,000,000 tons per year if the overseas conflict continued for three years.

Present mining operations, he asserted, could handle the 10,000,000 increase simply by adding 40 days annually to working schedules.

Only Eight Left Seeking Class AA 1939 Championship

Heavy Casualty List To Date, New Castle And Johnstown Among Undeclared Teams

Monongahela High Surprises New Kensington, McKeesport High Out Of Picture

The New Castle-Johnstown football battle scheduled for Taggart stadium on Saturday afternoon will be watched eagerly by six other schools in this district, all Class AA title seekers who have a chance for the 1939 trophy. Should Johnstown and New Castle tie, it will eliminate both. This would reduce the undefeated and untied list which now reads eight.

A victory here Saturday is coveted by both New Castle and Johnstown and in the event of good weather the stand will no doubt be packed jammed full. Several hundred will come here from Johnstown on the special train.

Monongahela Surprises
Following are the eight teams that still have a chance for the trophy—New Castle, Johnstown, Altoona, Wilkesburg, Midland, Ambler, California and Jeannette. Last week a fast Monongahela high team scored one of the prize upsets of the year by taking over the strong New Kensington high team 33 to 0. Previously New Ken high was very much in the running having defeated such teams as North Braddock, Scott High, and Vandergrift.

Wilkesburg high having defeated Washington high last week at the Wash. high field are still in the race. The Little Presidents are now out of it, but will still make it tough for the other clubs—especially New Castle here Friday night, October 20.

Swissvale considered a potential winner this year was bogged down by McKeesport, the McKeesport team having dropped to little Duquesne high in an early season upset. Donora high had pennant aspirations until they hit Clairton. Greensburg was put out of the picture last Saturday by Altoona high. Allegheny high lost pennant hopes when Midland bumped them.

Many Tears Shed
Brownsville and Monessen played a scoreless tie which put both of them out of the picture the same day. This could happen here Saturday, but we're hoping that it doesn't.

Ellwood City was removed by Butler last week in their scoreless deadlock.

Many were the casualties and many tears were shed Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock, and which side will shed them.

BURMAN WANTS TO FIGHT BAER

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 10 — Heavyweight "Red" Burman had $15,000 on the line today as an inducement for Maxie Baer to fight him in New York. If Baer refuses to accept the challenge to a bout "Red" hopes to get a crack at Tony Galento.

Burman, long identified with Jack Dempsey, defeated Tommy Farr in England after the Welshman scored over him in New York.

Commentators are already discussing what kind of peace we'll have. The real question is what kind of pieces we'll have.

Ticket Sale For Game Is Opened

At noon today Robert Mills, ticket manager for New Castle high, placed the New Castle-Johnstown grid tickets on sale at the Sporting Goods store. The sale at this store will continue through until 12 o'clock Saturday noon.

Reservations may be made by phone and tickets will be held until 5 o'clock Friday night and if not picked up by that time will be turned back into the regular sale.

There has not been any boost in price for the Johnstown game despite the importance of the battle here. The regular prices still prevail, 75 cents for the center section, 50 cents in sections 5, 6 and 7 and 25 cents in the west bleachers and south bleachers.

Mr. Mills said today that he had sent 300 adult tickets to Johnstown and 325 student tickets. The special train will carry several hundred here Saturday morning. Johnstown is really excited and would like very much to trim New Castle.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Dick Roberts has returned from a fishing expedition to Seeley's Bay, Mud Lake and Rice Lake and reports that the results were not good. He was accompanied by G. G. Roberts, this city, and Ralph Roberts of Sharon. Dick said that despite Canada being at war with Germany, the party experienced no difficulty entering or leaving Canada. He saw lots of soldiers. They were on guard at the manufacturing plants. Barbed

Last Saturday the Sportsmen's Council of Lawrence county held its second annual field day at the New Castle fair grounds. The weather could not have been better, even if it had been ordered by Chairman Harold Parker. Although the attendance did not reach last year's, a good crowd was present all day, and not until the day crowds looked like bats flying about in an abandoned mine did the shooters put their trusty gas pipes in their cases and depart for home. To give you a slight idea of the amount of targets thrown would mean nothing to many of you, but to those who have seen and shot these wily old sauce pans, 6,000 in one single day is a lot of birds thrown over the terra firma. Maybe my good friend Johnny Mock will figure for me how high a pile these targets would make if piled on top of one another. Pity the poor shooters who stood behind the 12 gauges and shot 100 and 150 rounds of shells. I had the pleasure of shooting 50 rounds, and you look at it. Boy, you'd think I stood behind an army mule by the looks of my shoulder. Well, it's still fun, how about it, fellows? I probably could fill this page full of everything that went on (I said probably) but Eddie Fritz, The News sports writer, has already told you of the highlights and I'll just stick to my lingo and thank you one and all for coming out in behalf of the Sportsmen's Council. The various clubs, officers, chairmen, should also receive a vote of thanks for their splendid cooperation and help.

Next regular meeting of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association tonight at 8 at the city building. October 10. Pictures of Canadian fishing and local sports and hunters as subjects. All pictures filmed by local Cine photographers and perhaps you are in some of the pictures. Come in tonight and see for yourself. Positively the first showing.

All local trap-shooters, notice: The Press hunters' shoot program tournament is set for October 21 and 22. Let's take a Lawrence county game down and have some fun. This shoot, according to All-Outdoors Mock, is for the timid novice and if you have never shot trap in your life before, all the bet-wire had been strung around the Welland canal. Excepting for the soldiers and the barbed wire one would not know a state of war existed, he remarked.

Met Charlie French of the State Fish commission and Johnny Mock, at the field trials of the Sportsmen's council at the Fair grounds. French reported having had a considerable amount of bass placed in the Slippery Rock. Mock agreed with President George Sillman of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association that the farmer's land is the playground of the outdoor sportsman and that a hunter or fisherman should first identify himself to the owner before using the farmer's ground for his enjoyment. Sillman will have charge of tonight's meeting of the sportsmen in city hall.

Among those here Saturday for the funeral of the late Jimmie Dime was another of his former fighters, Mickie Forkins. Mickie fought as a welterweight for Dime. After he left here he joined with Larry Lichtenstein of Chicago and fought some very good opponents. Forkins operates a cafe on the Warren-Cleveland road. One of his brothers also was a fighter. His name was "Pick."

Al Elore, Philadelphia heavyweight, has quit the boxing game and wants to be a policeman. He took the civil service examination in that city yesterday. "The New York Yanks is a great club and should be preserved instead of wrecked" said Frankie Frisch, 1940 manager of the Pirates. Twenty thousand are expected to see the steeplechase racing of the Rolling Rock association at the Mellon estate in Legioner valley tomorrow.

By scoring a 6-1 verdict, the White Sox tied the Chicago city series with the Cubs at three games each. The deciding game will be played tonight. It was announced that seven Cubs have signed 1940 contracts. Mrs. Sarah Fabyan of Boston beat Miss Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-1, to take the women's singles crown in the Pacific Coast tennis tourney. Bobby Riggs, Chicago's national champion, took the men's title by downing Frank Kovacs, of Oakland, Cal., 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5. Welterweight champion Henry Armstrong scored a technical knockout over Al Manfredone in one minute, 35 seconds of the fourth round of a non-title fight at Des Moines.

ter. But whether or not you belong to the class let's do down Saturday, Oct. 21, and I'll guarantee you we will receive a special welcome by Mr. Mock. He explained this shoot to Henry Rodgers, Eddie Fritz and myself and watch the All-Outdoors Editor next Sunday for further detail. In the meantime contact Henry Rodgers, Eddie Fritz or myself and let us know if you are going so we can arrange for transportation.

Where's the woodcock or otherwise known as the "timber doodle"? He sure has been making himself scarce around these 'heah pots'. If he could have seen those birds at the fair grounds making chalk powder out of those blue rocks, he would dig himself a nice hole in the ground until the end of the season.

The members of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association will engrave the names of the following in the Hall of Fame for the splendid work they did in putting the new trap-shoot field in shape for the trials. Hats off to Henry Rodgers, Harry McCormick, Jim Allen, Bob Hinkson, George Ward, Clair Smith, Gormley, Jr., Jimmie Cypher, J. Woods and Bob McCormick. If it had not been for these few men a trap and skeet shoot would not have come to life at the fair grounds. True, we have a large membership but many did not do as much as come out and see if they could be of any help. Many of us did without our meals and deserted our families to do this work for the association. The trap grounds belong to each and every member and it was our duty to help. I personally contacted many of you, oh you had to work. I wonder how you think the rest of us make a living? Somebody hands it to us on a silver platter? Not on your life, but we managed to get out and do our little part. The you wonder why one does not want re-elected. One year of it and you'll have your belly full of all the glory and everything that goes with it.

The new lights for the skeet field failed to arrive for the field day shoot. But in the very near future we will be ready to announce the opening night for the night shoots. Watch this paper for further announcements.

The skeet shooters complained of the traffic (people) going and coming from the running deer target, and this made several of them very nervous and for that reason they were afraid to shoot for the safety of pedestrians crossing the line of fire. We agree with you, and next season we assure you that this will not occur again. This has been at fault for the past years, and we have decided definitely to remedy this in the future.

High score in a shoot conducted at Hillsville Sunday, sponsored by the Hillsville Rod and Gun Club, was won by John DiLullo, William List, and Tony Grist. DiLullo scored 19 out of 25, List, 18 out of 25; and Grist, 16 out of 25.

Local Grid Season Goes Into High Gear

County Class B, And Inter-City Junior High Races Start On Friday

SEVEN CLASHES FOR LOCAL TEAMS

The local gridiron season goes into high gear this week with an assortment of crucial tussles.

Ben Franklin Junior high starts the ball rolling by entertaining Struthers, O., Thursday afternoon, at Taggart stadium. The Cunningham avenue juggernaut was impressive in demolishing a strong Campbell eleven, 7-7, last week. Roger Maggie, Zubkowsky, Paige and Hawkey looked like a set of smooth sparkplugs. Incidentally, Struthers was tied by Mahoningtown, 0-0.

Bessemer-Union
Friday's feature tiff brings together strong Bessemer high and Union Township in the opening clash of the Lawrence County Class B. race.

The biggest gallery of the season is anticipated to watch the rivals on the Union battleground. To date, Bessemer has dropped but one game, a 12-6 decision to Ursuline. Union has failed to hit the winning side as yet, losing to Ellwood City, Glassport and Grove City.

Once again, the Cement City aggregation defends the Class B championship it has held for several campaigns. Bessemer has another crackerjack combination, spearheaded by Peto and Kennedy in the backfield, and J. McCree and Pezzuolo in the front line. The Scotland Laners bucked up against three of the toughest hordes in the district. John Susko's machine may cause the Bessemerites considerable trouble.

The inter-city junior high race also starts Friday with Mahoningtown lining up against Cedar Washington, at Washington field. The Seventh Warders tied Struthers, 0-0, while Washington startled the district by subduing a classy Sharpville edition, 12-7. The north hill team club functioned smoothly, led by Burris, Davis, Altman and Doster, a set of good backs. Kenna and Gunn, on the line, played exceptionally well.

Mahoningtown displayed its strength by deadlocking Struthers, 0-0. W. and R. Nickum played a bang up game for the "Railroaders." The Mahoningtown line resembled the Boulder Dam in many respects. The tiff shapes up as a four-star special with action galore. The stands will be jammed as these rival tee-off for the coveted local pigskin coronet.

Pitt Is Rated As No. 1 Team

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The Azzi Ratem football ranking system, 19-day named Pittsburgh the nation's No. 1 college football team at this stage of the season.

The Panthers won their ranking with smashing victories to date over the University of Washington and West Virginia.

Tulane ranked second and Oklahoma third. The next 11 teams in order were Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oregon State, Duke, Michigan, Mississippi State, Alabama, Tennessee, Oregon, U. C. L. A. and Southern California.

Sports World Ramblings

In picking the Cincinnati Reds to mow down the New York Yankees, the ridiculous prediction proved one thing, if nothing else—that someone reads the column (editor, please note). Soon as the last put-out had been recorded and the Yanks had completed their work of annihilating a weak National League entry, several energetic readers dipped their pens in ink and really went to work.

One asks: "How could you?" Another: "Where have you been all this time? You surely have heard of the New York Yankees, or haven't you?" Still another: "We are organizing a committee to canvass the city and raise a collection with which to buy you a new crystal ball. You surely need one." "Why didn't you get in touch with me before making your prediction? I would have gladly asked one of my youngsters to tell you who was going to win the series, that's how easy it was to pick the winner." One of the readers said:

Those who couldn't waste time to drop in their "dig" gave it to us verbally along the avenue. We took it between the eyes from all directions. With it all there is a feeling of satisfaction. It is refreshing to any sports scribe, to know that his writing is not in vain.

The blue ribbon event proved that the Yanks will dominate baseball for several more years to come, a fact which may hurt the attendance figures. There isn't much pleasure sitting in the stands to simply watch an invincible team perform. The problem is a grave one for the remaining seven American League clubs. There's a long winter ahead and perhaps the magnates of these other aggregations can get their heads together and figure out a way.

One can really appreciate the greatness of the Yanks by glancing at the bench. Fellows like Tommy Henrich, Jake Powell, Bill Knickerbocker and Warren Rosar, all good enough to play with any other major league club, must ride the bench. Without a doubt, the Yanks represent one of the greatest baseball machines ever to perform on the diamond.

WILLIAMS GETS EAGLE

G. Earl Williams, local golfer, scored an eagle 2 on the par 4 No. 11 hole at the New Castle Field club. He used a driver for the first shot and took a No. 1 iron for the second shot to the green, the ball trickling into the cup. This shot was just about like a hole-in-one for thrills.

Johnstown High's Undeclared Eleven Will Try To Hand New Castle Setback

Class AA Conference Title Winner May Be One Of Two Opposing Teams Saturday

Back in 1935, in the Point Stadium at Johnstown a fighting New Castle High "Red Hurricane" defeated a fine Johnstown High team 24 to 7, and that was the last meeting of the two teams—until now, in 1939, we find the Johnstown High team back on the schedule and ready to invade New Castle with an undefeated Class AA conference team.

The "Johnnies" will be after revenge here. The series now stands at one apiece. New Castle in 1934 was defeated here by the score of 13 to 0 by Johnstown High.

Locals Working Hard

The New Castle team resumed training on Monday afternoon and immediately got down to serious business and work. They realize that Johnstown will send a team here that craves the Class AA crown denied them last year by McKeesport. Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh knows what to expect. His scouts have seen Johnstown play and report that the "Red Hurricane" is in for a big afternoon, and that the visitors will be the best team that the locals have faced this year.

Johnstown has defeated Braddock, Scottdale, and Glassport in their first three games. New Castle's victims have been Butler, Youngstown East, Beaver Falls and Warren.

Breaks Up Passes

The New Castle team will specialize this week in trying to break up Johnstown pass plays that the scouts have brought back. In the Glassport game last week the Flood City boys tossed a total of 20 passes and made five of them, and had three intercepted.

New Castle may toss a few passes also, depending a good deal how the running attack makes out. Bridenbaugh has a fine set of backs this year with the addition of young Freddy McKee, who started his first big league game last Friday against Warren and looked very good. He is developing into a valuable man, and will alternate with Joe Gendy at quarterback. Roberts and Clazza looked good at the running game and of course, Lauro packed a lot of weight from his fullback spot, scoring the lone touchdown of the game.

Johnstown will find a good New Castle team ready for them and a team that will fight to the last ditch for the coveted Class AA win.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

Here we are folks in the merry month of October... the tenth day and all is well... and you have just sixty-three more shopping days until Christmas. So get busy because time does fly this time of year. There are a million and one things that must be done before you can settle down to winter living and Christmas planning. Thanksgiving comes and goes and winter clothes must be made ready for the family... so keep an eye on the future and be prepared.

* * *

When the fans of our football team travel to Massillon some of them will have this little poem in their minds. We pass it along to you... and it was contributed by Lawrence Kahret and it goes something like this.

O' The Tiger roared,

Roared in vain

For he can't roar

Like a Hurricane.

That's the tale of the Tiger!

O' The Tiger snarled,

Snarled some more

For the Hurricane

Wouldn't let him score.

That's the tale of the Tiger!

The Tiger leapt,

His leap went wide

And the Hurricane

Blew away his hide.

That's the tale of the Tiger!

* * *

This is National Fire Prevention Week according to the fire underwriters... So we must all be careful what we do and how we make our fires in the yard. According to the law... no fires are permitted on your property (outside the home furnace fire) without a permit from your nearest fire station. These permits may be obtained without cost but the fines for not having one may run as high as one hundred dollars. No fires are permitted in the streets.

Stock Market In Sharp Rally

Some Extreme Gains Are Later Cut Some By Profit-Taking

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The stock market today rallied sharply from a mixed opening, but extreme gains running to 3 points were halved by later profit-taking.

Steels were pacemakers for the general market, the group was higher from the start, despite initial irregularity elsewhere, and increased gains to as much as 2 points in Bethlehem and U. S. Steel. These were about halved in the second hour.

Chemicals also were in moderate demand, with Allied Chemical spurring 3 points at one time. Union Carbide and Du Pont each gained better than a point.

Also up a point or more at their tops were Chrysler, American Smelt. and Refining, Westinghouse Electric, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Douglas Aircraft and Coca-Cola. American Can jumped 2.

Improvement was more modest in the mail orders, rubbers, oils and utilities.

Jr. C. Of C. Told Marine Band Plans

High School Bands Will Parade And Compete On October 30

The Junior Chamber of Commerce last night was informed of arrangements for the United States Marine band concert it will sponsor in the Cathedral on the evening of October 30.

That afternoon flashy high school bands from all over this section will parade through the downtown to Taggart stadium, where they will compete for honors under junior chamber auspices. It is expected the Marine band will appear at the stadium, too.

Between 30 and 40 high school bands have been invited to participate. It is not known yet how many will accept, but Sharon's high school outfit notified junior chamber leaders by telephone that it will be on hand to compete.

President John P. Brinton presided as business was discussed last night. Ross D. Rosenberg, civic leader, spoke for the coming roll call of the Lawrence County Red Cross. The Marine band visit arrangements were related by Gurth W. Rapson, head of the committee in charge.

A report on current industrial promotion activities was tendered by Presley N. Jones, head of the organization's industrial promotion work.

A. F. Of L. Refuses To Take Action For Third Term

Likewise Refuses To Go On Record In Favor Of New Deal

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 10.—The 59th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor today refused to go on record in favor of the New Deal and a third term for President Roosevelt.

By a voice vote of approximately 70 percent the convention upheld a decision of the resolutions committee which advised taking no sides in a pro-New Deal, pro-third term resolution presented by the Connecticut delegation.

The resolutions committee in reporting on the resolution, expressed regret that it had been introduced.

"It is obvious that a political construction would be placed upon the rejection of the resolution and equally so upon its adoption," the committee reported.

Change Of Venue For State Trooper Has Been Requested

(International News Service)
MAUCH CHUNG, Pa., Oct. 10.—District Attorney Albert H. Heimbach was to appear in Carbon county court today to demand specific reasons for a requested change of venue for the trial of state police Corp. Benjamin Franklin in the fatal shooting of 14-year old Joan Stevens.

Following a conference of the prosecution staff during which two dissenting attorneys walked out, Heimbach announced he would oppose a venue change strenuously.

He demanded the defense prove its contentions that Franklin could not obtain a "fair trial" in Carbon county where he is accused of slaying the Nesquehoning girl in a police scout car last June 5.

Attorneys James C. McCready representing a "citizens justice committee" and George Shustack, counsel for the slain girl's parents, were the dissenters. They said they favored a change of county for the trial, which reportedly will not get underway until early January.

Meanwhile, Trooper Franklin was at liberty under doubled bail of $10,000 set by Judge William G. Thomas and supplied by a bonding company.

LEWIS ISSUES BITTER ATTACK

C. I. O. President Speaks At Second Convention At San Francisco

By FRED WYATT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—C. I. O. President John L. Lewis today issued a bitter attack on European leaders in connection with the present war and on American industrial and political leaders in connection with domestic unemployment problems.

Lewis' comments were contained in his annual statement to the C. I. O. as it opened its second convention.

"Most of Europe is being devastated by the madness of war," said Lewis. "Arrogant aggression and inept statesmanship have produced a calamity which has overwhelmed millions of innocent people."

The C. I. O. chief said Americans can escape the misfortunes of war "only if we set our own house" in order and build up a bulwark of democratic resistance against all the forces in this country which lead to Fascism and war.
